WELCOME!

A message from our CEOs

In these uncertain and deeply disrupted times it came to our mind, that networking is also showing on a small scale, how this world could work better.

Though all our members are primarily part of networks for creating more and better business, networks in our industry are also always a place, where there many more aspects like respecting other cultures, views, different ways how to work, different languages and habits, different colours of our skin, respecting both female and male people in the same fair way and supporting each other.

In other words: it's a bit like a family and goes over all borders and cultures.

If this would happen the same way, in the rest of the world, everybody would be doing much better.

Finally it is all about respect and we all in our small-network give a good example how this works now and will even do more to get this working even better in the future.

EPN is about business, but business without these characteristics is worth only half o fit.
